PHILOSOPHY OF TEACHING

It is my responsibility as a faculty member, to both the student and community, that I create a consistent and warm environment where students feel comfortable seeking support but are also able to take productive feedback. In my experiences working in graduate level nursing I have used much of my energy to motivate, energize, and sharpen the skills of my students. While I still offer critical feedback, I also create a warm environment where feedback offers opportunities for growth and reject feelings of failure or lack of capability.
