Spring 2017

Greetings from the Program Chair

On behalf of the Department of Social Work, I welcome you to the Spring edition of Northwestern Oklahoma State University's Social Work Program newsletter. Spring is always a busy time for the Department of Social Work with students completing field practicums, honoring professional social workers in March, contributing to our role of advocacy by participating in legislative day at the capitol, and hosting our annual "Primp for Prom" event where we give away hundreds of prom dresses to high school students in Northwest Oklahoma for free. In this edition we take time to honor a special alumna, Audry Haldaman Stewart, celebrate DeeDee Nolan as NASW-OK undergraduate student of the year, and remember Sherie Byrd, a beloved BSW graduate and Northwest Oklahoma social worker. As always, we thank those whose efforts assist us in preparing competent, effective Northwest Oklahoma generalist practice social workers. We are so grateful to our field agency partners, field instructors, adjunct instructors, and Social Work Advisory Board Members for enhancing the experiences of our students and improving social services for the people of our region.

Field Director earns LCSW license

Jennifer Pribble, Director of Social Work Field Education, recently earned her Licensed Clinical Social Worker (LCSW) credential with the Oklahoma State Board of Licensed Social Workers. The LCSW clinical credential requires a practicing master's level social worker to be under supervision of a LCSW and passage of the Association of Social Work Boards (ASWB) Licensed Clinical Social Worker Exam.

"Social Workers are the largest group of mental health care providers in the United States and I'm happy to say that I am one of those providers. It is my job as a social worker to empower people to combat mental illnesses, substance abuse, and social problems," Pribble said.

In order for Pribble to obtain her clinical credential, she worked as an outpatient mental health therapist for children and families at a non-profit agency in Northwest Oklahoma. While there, she completed more than 4000 practice hours, 3000 clinical hours, and 100 hours of educational supervision with a Board approved LCSW Clinical Supervisor.

"I am honored to bring my credentials to Northwestern and support the licensure of BSW social workers graduating from our program," Pribble said.

Pribble earned a Bachelor's of Social Work from Northwestern and a Masters of Social Work from the University of Oklahoma's Anne & Henry Zarrow School of Social Work.

Although retired, Stewart has excellent advice to offer social workers who are just beginning their career, "Use the best skills you have to do the very best job you can, use evidence-based treatment and continue to enhance your skills through training. Be kind, it is through our kindness that others begin to trust us and it is in the process of helping others that we find our reward".

March is national Social Workers month.

Nolan receives NASW-OK Undergraduate Student of the Year award

Dlonra (Dee Dee) Nolan, Enid senior, was named as the Oklahoma Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers' (NASW-OK) Undergraduate Student of the Year award for 2017. Nolan will be presented the award in April at the NASW-OK Annual State Conference Awards Reception in Norman.

NASW is the largest membership organization of professional social workers in the world and works to enhance the professional growth and development of its members, to create and maintain professional standards, and to advance sound social practices.

Nolan is majoring in Social Work with a minor in English. She is a graduate of Northern Oklahoma College and a veteran of the U.S. Navy. In 2014, she was a recipient of the Geraldine Burns English Award and Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. During her tenure in the Navy, she was awarded three Navy Achievement Medals and Sailor of the Year. In 2015, she served on the board of directors for the Enid YMCA and is a current member of the NASW. Nolan was elected as the undergraduate student representative and currently serves on the NASW Oklahoma Board of Directors. In addition, she serves as President of the Social Workers Association of Tomorrow-SWAT student organization at NWOSU and for the last two years has arranged and advocated for student participation in NASW-OK's Legislative Day.

Rehder stated, "I have observed her dynamic interpersonal skills, time management, professionalism, appropriate role modeling, and her commitment to social justice in our region and in our state. She is the type of social work student who is truly worthy of this recognition. "

Following graduation from Northwestern, Nolan will be attending the Masters of Social Work program at University of Oklahoma Anne and Henry Zarrow School of Social Work.

Northwestern Social Work students participating in field experience

Field Experience for social work students from Northwestern Oklahoma State University recently began for the spring semester. Five senior social work majors entered practicum agencies within northwest Oklahoma, central Oklahoma and Kansas, to complete 420 contact hours, demonstrate 31 practice behaviors and master the program's nine core competencies as outlined by the Council on Social Work Education.

"Social work field experience is critical in developing the practitioner skills each social worker needs to be successful," said Jennifer Pribble, director of field education and assistant professor of social work.

Each student in field experience is assigned to a field instructor, someone with specific credentials in the agency to reinforce social work ideas, practice behaviors and competencies.

"The field instructor is a key component to the student's field experience," Pribble said. "Field Instructors volunteer their time to assist with educating these young professionals. Without their contributions to our students, our program, and the social work profession the field experience would not be possible."

Listed below are senior students studying field experience, hometowns and their practicum agency placements:

Dlonra Nolan of Enid, Youth and Family Services-Enid;

Jessi Neal of Hobart, CREOKS-Stillwater;

Codi Harding of Waukomis, St. Mary's Resilience Behavioral Health-Enid,

NWOSU students attend NASW-OK Legislative Day at the Capitol

More than 130 social workers from across the state gathered this month at the Oklahoma Capitol for the National Association of Social Workers, Oklahoma Chapter (NASW-OK) Legislative Day.

Social work students and faculty from Northwestern Oklahoma State University were in attendance to learn about legislative issues impacting the social work profession and the populations they serve. Legislative Day provides an opportunity for social work students and practitioners to engage in macro-level practice and learn effective ways to advocate on the behalf of others. This day assists the students in learning to analyze and formulate policies that advance social well-being and develop ways for effective policy action.

“Legislative Day provides the opportunity for participation in public policy issues and social justice advocacy, both key components of social work education and practice” said Dr. Kylene Rehder, chair of the department of social work.

The day started with a tour of the Oklahoma State Capitol and a welcome message from NASW-OK Board President Frannie Pryor, followed by Kara Joy McKee, an outreach specialist from the Oklahoma Policy Institute who presented on effectively approaching legislators. A legislative panel comprised of Rep. Carol Bush, Rep. Emily Virgin, Rep. Jason Dunnington, Senator Adam Pugh, and Sen. David Holt, was moderated by Andy Moore. The day concluded with opportunities to engage with legislators and closing remarks by the executive director of NASW-OK, Mary Jo Kinzie.

Social work students that were in attendance were: Jessica Goodballet, Marsellia Rael, Elizabeth Fox-Shiple, Codi Harding, Mirissa Branine, Jessi Neal, Lauren Shriver, Levi Sanders, Dana Kausek, and Denise Tyrell.

We remember one of our own, Sherie Byrd, who recently passed away. She was a beloved member of NWOSU's Social Work alumni and one of those special people who, if you met her, you would not forget. She will be greatly missed.

Sherie Byrd, 49 year old Woodward resident, died Thursday, January 26, 2017 at the Mercy Hospital in Oklahoma City, surrounded by her family. Funeral services were held Monday, January 30, 2017 at the Free Will Baptist Church with Dr. Allen Mabra, Reverend Daniel Sweet, and C.J. Sober officiating. Burial followed in the Elmwood Cemetery.

Sherie Diann (Perrin) Byrd was born on July 6, 1967 in Woodward, Oklahoma to Jay Bennit and Linda Eulane (Scott) Perrin. Byrd attended Woodward schools and graduated from Woodward High School in 1985. She graduated from Northwestern Oklahoma State University in 2011 with a Bachelor's in Social Work before graduating from the University of Oklahoma with a Master's in Social Work.

She was united in marriage to Richard Lee Byrd on April 2, 1988 in San Diego, California.

They made their first home in California. Byrd stayed at home with her children while living in California and she received her degree in Medical Billing from America University. The family moved back to Woodward in 2001 to be near her family. Byrd went to work for Mutual of Omaha and continued working there until they closed. She went to work for the Northwest Domestic Crisis Center and she loved that job. Byrd was very proud of the fact that she received her Masters Degree in Social Work. She helped so many people and felt like the girls she worked with were her family.

She was a member of the Free Will Baptist Church. Byrd loved her family, especially her grandbabies, who she loved dearly. She will be missed by everyone. The boys friend's always referred to her as "Mama Byrd".
